

Dear Pegasus families,

I hope you are all well and having lots of fun doing your home learning. It is very strange being away from school but fortunately, I can see all of the amazing learning you have been completing online and I'm very proud of you for trying your best. Congratulations Shyla, on getting one hundred percent on your last twenty quizzes on Bug Club! Remember to check your Bug Club every day because I look at your learning on a Friday to see who needs more books. Well done Aarav and Oscar on your fabulous efforts on Education City, I am so impressed with your brilliant learning!

I've been trying to keep very busy during this time away from school and have been using my time very productively. I am making YouTube videos for you to practise your phonics and maths at home with your grown-ups and telling some stories online. Luckily, my flatmate and I are both healthy and we have been doing daily exercises together. I love the PE with Joe videos and I especially enjoy that it's like a PE lesson for the nation. Interestingly, I'm learning how to do the splits like some of the girls in our class! So far, I've been practising for almost one month and I'm getting quite close now. I even found some spare art materials and have been practising drawing different pictures using felt tip pens. Here is a picture of a daffodil that I created and some animals that I've tried.

I've been reading some of my books for you on YouTube and so far I think my favourites have been 'Sophia Sparks' by Elanor Best and 'Molly Maybe and the Monster Mission' by Kristina Stephenson. Sophia is an inventor and she thinks her giant blue bow helps her with her amazing creativity and ideas. I really liked reading the story because I think it's important that we keep on inventing over the half term, I only wish I was as good at it as Sophia is. Molly on the other hand, has an amazing tree house that transports her to the Undermunder and she investigates who has been digging holes all over her next door neighbour's garden. I thought the ending was especially funny and I love the idea of having a talking dog! If you have some spare time you could go and watch the videos of the story on YouTube and tell me what you think about them. Here is a link to the Sophia Sparks video.

Fantastically, I have a really bright room and lots of skylights as you can see from my picture and that lets the sunlight stream through the windows all day long, so I have enjoyed sitting in the sun with my flatmate and talking to my friends and family on my computer and phone. Here is a picture of my family on a group video chat. My mum, dad, brother, cousin and I all got together virtually to stay safe together but in separate countries. Have you been able to video call any of your friends or family?

Missing you lots,
Miss Walters
